FIFTY YEARS.

Reunion of the Descendants of Colonel Cyrus Russell.

On Saturday, the 19th day of May, 1838, at 4 o'clock P. M., Col. Cyrus Russell and wife, ing June 18th. with five sons and four daughters arrived at Arcadia Valley-just such a pleasant May day as to-day. There were then nine families in all living in the Valley, and now, what a change! how different the Valley looks today from what it did fifty years ago. The mountains and hills are the same, with the brooks of water-all else how changed, and the family, how changed! To-day eight of the original number are alive: four sons and four daughters. To-day the whole number of sons and daughters, children and grandchildren is ninety, of which forty three sat down to a dinner fit for the gods. All but two of the families were represented. It is useless to try to enumerate all the good things on the three long tables set at the old home by the combined members of the different families. When dinner was announced all stood up and sang Praise God, from whom all blessing flow, Praise Him all creatures here below, Praise Him above, ye beavenly host, Praise Father, Son and Holy Ghost.

After the blessing all seated around those ables and had a feast of good things, and feast of reason and flow of soul. After we arose from the table I took a walk among the graves of our dead. I counted forty-nine and one was buried in the East, making in all one hundred and forty; and now how many of those present to-day will see the fiftieth year from to-day? Fifty years! what wonderful changes will take place in the next fifty years. Wuo can tell? and we who saw the last fifty years will be forgotten. So goes the world. Man that is born of woman his days are few and full of trouble. T. P. R.

history, speaking to us, as they do, of mighty achievements of people, by sea and by land, and in the realms of thought, we are oppressed by how little they knew. Withall their accomplishments, and they were many, they went down into the grave and none so wise as to call their attention to the hallowed influence of the W. C. T. U. Men of giant intellect labored in the court, the rostrum, and the pulpit, and caused their influence to be felt throughout the world, and not one ray of light from this society fell upon their darkened pathway. St. Paul, the most brilliant and eloquent expounder of the Christhis society, but in his ignorance and tyranny set his foot upon this "new departure," and preached the heresy that the voice of women should not be raised in the church in public declamation. This man, wise in many things, but foolish in this, had the assurance to go back to Genesis and declare that woman was made for man, and not man for the woman. He even denied that the taught that woman was man's helpmate, his monitor, his consoler and counselor within the family circle and around the family fireside. He asserted that man was the head of the house, even as Christ is the head of the Church. He taught what a poet has since expressed: "O, woman, in our hours of ease, Uncertain, coy and hard to please,

But when stern anguish wrings the brow, A ministering angel thou!" Poor man! Besotted with ignorance, he acted his part upon the stage, and slept with his fathers. But he was an old bachelor, and of course what he thought and said amounted to little. Then, how great was his lack of knowledge!
